Oasis India
Annual Report
2013-2014

Anti - Human Trafficking & Community Empowerment
It's been 10 years since most of us understood what a tsunami meant. And as we travelled the South Eastern coast in early 2005, looking at the trail of debris and destruction, and listened to heart-wrenching stories of how lives changed forever in an instant, one thing remains with me to this day – that the human heart is always hopeful. Amidst loss, tragedy, despair, anxiety and deep-seated pain, there is always this thought of how tomorrow is a brand new day! For, tomorrow, the calamity of today is history, the catastrophe of yesterday is a distant past. For, in tomorrow we see the product of persevering, enduring, surviving – today.

And that is what Oasis India is all about. As we invite you to the stories of the past year, we offer you the opportunity to join us on this journey – the journey of every child with that same glint in their eyes, of every young person who dreams of a future, of every woman who chooses to let go of a painful past of abuse, of every man that feels inadequate, of every member of staff that knows that the strength of sacrifice, courage and perseverance lies within community – for a new dawn breaks, a new strength appears, and there lies a fresh, new opportunity just over the horizon – in our world!

As JRR Tolkien, writes in his novel, Return of the King: “Oft hope is born when all is forlorn.”
Message From The Chairperson

Reason for Hope

Are things getting better in our world? Very often it seems to me, quite the opposite. Alongside growing incomes and technological progress, we face ever-increasing sandblasters, natural and man-made. In our country in the last year, despite public outrage and government efforts, there seems to be no end to cases of the most brutal sexual attacks on women, and girls not only younger than others. We have a new form of government elected with a massive mandate, and a growing sense of despair about voices of resistance making themselves heard ever more.

Our expanding markets, and burgeoning cities (India now has nearly 50 cities with a million people) are shadowed by stories of impoverished families, urban and rural. Without sustainable livelihoods, whose children cannot access their Right to Education, and who are distressingly often trafficked for slave labour or the sex trade. These too are numbers that are growing, and at a rate that outstrip the market indices we are more conscious of in our daily life.

The human fallout from this frenetic growth, is all too apparent in the communities that Oasis works in, whether in the red light area in Mumbai, or the slums of Bangalore and Chennai, or even its rural hub in Puranpur. In reaching people moving away from rural districts only to be trapped in urban deprivation or abuse. Oasis’ work brings some measure of practical intervention - a ray of hope, and last but not least, a touch of dignity as a human life worth pursuing and investing in, for building (or often rebuilding what has been demolished).

The people who make up Oasis India, are not immune from the fallout of all that is happening in our world – in the past year we have seen staff and leadership and program changes and challenges that seemed daunting, and at times even insurmountable. But as I write this, I can only think of the amazing Providence and Help that has made us stronger and better equipped, to carry out the work that we have been entrusted with. In the words of a well-known hymn, our God is indeed the Faithful (meaning trustworthy, dependable) One.

There are amazing stories, of hope and deliverance, and incredible sacrificial redemptive work which I have heard and seen, as I meet with the work and people of Oasis. It is true, there can be hope - in the darkest of circumstances. We see and share in the hope because of those who enter and work in the hard places of our cities, and country (including many, many, other organisations, and individuals). It takes a step of faith, to encounter hope. As you look through these pages, I pray you will find a glimpse of hope, that might encourage you - wherever you are and whatever your struggles.

Chair, Oasis India – Committees of Management
Oasis Mission and Values

Preamble
Oasis considers belief and behaviour integral. Oasis approaches what we do, from an understanding of what we believe, which also informs how we do it. Our beliefs cannot have their full validity if they are not fixed out. Equally, our behaviours cannot fully represent Oasis without an understanding that they demonstrate the Christian faith.

Beliefs
- Each individual is made in the image of the Triune God. We are different yet equal and all have a God-given purpose.
- God created us all to live in positive, dynamic, inter-dependent relationship with Him, others and the rest of creation.
- Jesus is love. Jesus is not simply one of God’s attributes, but rather the very essence of His nature. This love pervades the universe and is unconditional rather than earned.
- God became human in the person of Jesus Christ. He came to where we are. He shared our experience of life. He felt joy and pain. He engages with us and understands us.
- Jesus served others rather than expecting to be served and willingly sacrificed His life through the cross.
- Jesus rose from the dead. Death is not the end. There is resurrection and hope that things can change and people and situations be transformed.
- Through faith in this God, all human beings can experience fullness of life before and after death.

Behaviours
- Oasis is a place where there is:
  - Equality. Differences in personality, culture, background, experience and world view are respected.
  - Inclusion. Those on the fringes who are in some way excluded are deliberately sought out and included.
  - Inter-dependence. We live and work in a way that recognizes that people, community and creation are inter-dependent.
  - Open Relationships. Healthy, transparent and open relationships among all those we interact with, including a willingness to forgive and be forgiven are fostered.
- Sacrifice. Doing what it takes to serve both individuals and the communities with whom we work.
- Hope and Perseverance. Despite circumstances that exist, an atmosphere of hope and an attitude of perseverance is pervasive.
- Innovation. New ideas and approaches are welcomed and risk taking is common.
- Excellence. Whatever we do, we do it to the best of our ability.

Vision
What we are working towards
Our vision is for community – a place where everyone is included, making a contribution and reaching their God-given potential.

Mission Statement
What we are doing now to fulfil our vision
Oasis is committed to working in an inclusive, integrated, empowering and comprehensive way so that all people, especially those experiencing vulnerability and lack of hope, have increasing capacity to address their own issues.

Outcomes
What we hope will be the result of the work we do
- Local communities that are characterized by high levels of trust, safety, cohesion, mutual support, resilience, health and opportunity and have increasing capacity to address their own issues.
- The prevention of people being excluded from community and those that are, brought back into community finding wholeness and fullness of life.
- The replication of models that effectively contribute to community transformation and bring the excluded into community.
Introducing the Hubs

The overall aim of an Oasis Hub is to recognize that individual and community well-being flows from wholeness and that people and communities have a wide range of needs, including social, physical, educational, environmental, vocational and spiritual needs.

There is no set blueprint for what a hub looks like. It depends entirely on the individual neighbourhood. Some will include a football club, others a sailing centre. Some might have a coffee shop where others will offer vocational training. Hubs set as a fluid response to the needs of the community and a means of bringing its people together.

The goals of an Oasis Hub include:

- Building up communities, transforming them into environments where people can feel safe, happy and proud to live.
- Instilling an awareness of the dangers and tactics of human traffickers.
- Creating a sense of ‘village’ in each neighbourhood, making them into places where people support and depend on each other.
- Encouraging volunteering and partnership with us at every level of operation.
- Stimulating a local culture of enterprise and self-help.
- Raising aspirations through educational and employment opportunities.
- Reducing crime and anti-social behaviour.

Mumbai

Mumbai (formerly known as Bombay) stands as the most populated and wealthiest city in India. Home to the headquarters of several multinational corporations, the city’s job opportunities and high standard of living attract migrants from all over India. It has become a melting pot, diverse in language, religion and culture.

It is also home to India’s biggest red light district, Kamathipura. The stretch of brothels, known to locals as The Cages, has been in operation for over 150 years. It is estimated that over 20,000 people are kept under sexual slavery in Kamathipura alone.

Mumbai also contains several of the largest dums in South Asia. These impoverished regions currently house over half of Mumbai’s population and continue to expand.
Bandra Hub
Building a sense of community by generating opportunity and ownership
Funding requirements: INR 41,37,374 ($61,146/€40,374)
In partnership with Tzar Australia

Since its beginning in 2000, the Bandra Hub has served the people of the Deyashawar community, a major home to 5,000 families. Classes in health awareness and micro-finance, and the development of confidence through Self Help Groups have allowed its citizens to grow together, and as individuals. We also offer education, tutoring, a sports club, psycho-social support and health care.
We have watched the community grow and cultivate a strong sense of ownership and are excited to see what next year has in store.

Highlights
- 55 women participated in the savings programme and have begun the process of getting out of debt.
- 40 children were educated on child rights.
- 31 children were enrolled in the preschool and, this year,
  25 completed the programme.
- 36 children were taken on a field trip to a water park.
- 120 women attended the International Women’s Day celebration fostering fellowship and togetherness in the community.
- 15 young women completed our one-year tailoring course and now earn an independent income.
- 6 children were able to access private education classes.

Blue Edge - Mumbai
Empowering young lives
Funding requirements: INR 18,00,000 ($29,673/€17,550)
In partnership with Blue Dart

Blue Edge continues to run as a CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) initiative in partnership with Blue Dart Aviation for the underprivileged youth of Deyashawar. This six-month course teaches spoken English, IT skills, customer service skills, interview skills, personal development and life skills. Through this programme we are able to work with around 100 youth a year, helping them prepare for employment and enabling them to improve their quality of life. The course allows students to develop skills and confidence so that they can compete in the job market and find long-term stability.
80 youth completed and graduated from Blue Edge in Deyashawar this year.

Ojas has had the opportunity to work with teas and watch them grow since he was just a preschooler. The son of an illiterate day laborer, Ojas was raised in the tribal Bajuna community. He is now 13 years old and an active member of our children’s group, Bel Poarchay. The group’s aim is to create young leaders by instilling students with an awareness of child rights, environmental issues, child abuse, child labor and other social issues facing their community. Ojas has encouraged several children from his neighborhood to join and futurose those who have dropped out of school. He is helping his two siblings in their studies and dreams of one day becoming a doctor so he can serve his community.
Borivali Hub
Supporting families through health care, education and vocational training
Funding requirement: INR 32,924,601 (INR 93,311,022.12, DPM)
In partnership with Operative Agri, Jo Mynwcrogh and Partners International

The Borivali Hub opened its doors in 2011 to partner with the 4,500 families that live in the surrounding slums. Low literacy rates among women, generational poverty and a lack of health awareness are some of the common problems present in the region. Alongside members of the community, Oasus runs regular awareness programmes on human trafficking as well as health camps for women, youth and children. We have set up a preschool, spoken English training, tailoring classes, health care, counselling sessions and resources for HIV+ families.

Reach:
400-500 people per year

Boys Home
Giving HIV+ boys a living environment to call home
Funding requirement: INR 10,000,000 (INR 3,746,059.73, DPM)
In partnership with Farmers International and local agencies

The 9 boys who lived at our Boys Home have been with Oasus since they were young. They were born HIV+ and must lose their parents to the disease. Before the Boys Home, they were working in one of our other residential care facilities. The Boys Home was opened so they could experience an enriching and positive family life. At the home, in Thane, just outside of Mumbai, we surrounded them with caring house parents who have guided them through their development. During their time here we have taken care of their medical, educational, financial and emotional needs while they developed into strong, young men, capable of leading sustainable and fulfilling lives.

This year, they moved on from the Boys Home. We are proud of all the individuals they have become and are excited to see what their futures hold.

Pandi came to Mumbai along with her husband and two children 17 years ago. Her husband runs a small grocery shop in the community but the treatment required for his various health problems consume a majority of his income. Within this particular community, women are not allowed to work outside of their home, but Pandi and her family were struggling financially and desperately needed another income. When her neighbour told her about Oasus tailoring programme, she spoke to her husband and he allowed her to attend.

She came to the centre and signed up for the tailoring course as well as counselling and classes on health awareness and life skills.

This year Pandi completed the course and is now tailoring orders for her home. The extra income has brought support and stability to her home.

Swami first came to Oasis through his children’s home, Pumata Sharan, along with his brother and sister. He was born HIV+. As his siblings grew up they moved out on their own and into group homes for older children. Swami stayed at Pumata Sharan for the next 15 years. We were never able to locate his parents. When we opened our Boys Home in 2017, Swami was welcomed along with a few other HIV+ boys. They were sent to attend, care for at home and all of their medical needs were taken care of. Under the guardianship of her house parents, the boys grew together as a makhanal family.

This year, Swami began to think about his future. His first step came to understand that he could not live at the boys home for the rest of his life. He then began growing into a more mature and kind person. He began making friends and taking school seriously, but he still missed his family. His sister would visit once a year to encourage him. She would promise him that they could live as a family again after the finished his schooling. After two years, his sister had completed her training and saved enough money to rent a house. On a warm spring afternoon, he came to pick him up. It was a day of joy for both of them. They are nowGIT and living in Thane where Swami is studying in Std 10 and continues treatment for HIV. He is a very healthy and active young man. He tells us how blessed and grateful he is to have been a part of Oasis.

Aruna Night Shelter

Offering a safe haven to at-risk girls
Funding requirements: PRA 1,521,450 (32,343,618,486)
In partnership with Christian Ossman and sunscreen

Each night 10 girls, between the ages of 5 and 12 come from their home in the brothels to sleep in the Night Shelter. During their time with us, we work with them on their studies, give them a nutritious meal and teach life skills and good habits. By providing alternative options and opportunities, the programme aims to keep vulnerable girls from being trafficked or lured into the sex trade. We are able to build relationships and show them that a different life is within their reach. Since we opened the shelter, we’ve seen parents and local police become much more supportive of our work.

Aruna Drop In Centre

Hope and support for those in the sex trade
Funding requirements: PRA 38,94,322 (63,007,68,003)
In partnership with Suriland and Ryan Berg Initiative

We opened the Aruna Drop In Centre in the heart of the Red Hot district on Grand Road in 1998. Our work has focused on providing rehabilitation to those trapped in the commercial sex industry and a lifetime to those who are at risk. At the centre, women have access to vocational training, health care, education for their children and help finding a life outside of the brothels. We also spend time inside the brothels, meeting with women as well as the pimps and owners. Through these interactions we continue to build relationships and foster a sense of trust with the community.

Highlights
- Life Skills classes were regularly attended by 12 women and 24 mon.
- The weekly livelihood training was regularly attended by 12 women. They were taught basic hand stitching, pattern-cutting and how to make baby clothes. 2 women purchased a sewing machine and have begun earning an income. A local church gifted a sewing machine to a woman who is now using it to support herself.
- 11 women attended a three-day cooking class where they learned how to make a variety of snacks including sexa bata pu, dal bawarka and dal bata pu. These can be made with minimal resources and sold for extra income.
- Every day 3 to 4 women and at least one man came to our centre for a medical checkup.
- HIV testing was done for 7 women and 2 children.
- Medication was provided for 89 women and 7 men.
- Hepatitis B vaccinations were given to 16 women and 3 men.
- Direct Observation Treatment (DoT) for tuberculosis was started for 2 women.
- 23 health awareness sessions were conducted and attended by a total of 89 women.
- Eighth literacy classes were held three weeks where 3 men and 3 women have learned to read and write.
- 33 women were able to leave the red light area and return to their hometowns. Out of these, 7 found employment and three got married. Follow up visits were conducted by OHS or partnering NGOs.

Reach
- The Drop In Centre served between 700 and 800 women and children this year.

Kays was born HIV+. Her mother died during the birth and Kaji grew up alone, spending his life in orphanages and youth shelters. He is one of three children that she met and fell in love with another orphan named Deej. Without an understanding of how HIV spreads, she posed it on to him with a few months. But they loved each other and set up together.

As Kaji’s condition worsened, a friend told them about the King’s Aruna Drop In Centre where she might be able to find help. When they arrived, both required counseling, but Kaji was becoming weaker and needed urgent care. She was referred to Nairobi, where Dr. Aoki helped on the coast of Thailand raking the Sianghe Sea. As the hospital she was told that her crippled immune system was failing and that she had developed multing-resistant tuberculosis. There was nothing more the doctors could do to save the disease. On the morning of April 17, 2014, Kayj passed away. She was 15 years old.

Deej returned to the Drop In Centre. We talked to him about grief and how to cope with life in a broken world. He was eventually able to find peace and hope for his future.
In 2003, we opened the Day Care Centre in the middle of India’s largest red-light district, Kamathipura. The aim of the centre is to protect and care for the children of sexually exploited women. The children come from backgrounds of extreme poverty and violence and are unaware of the opportunities that education can provide. Many of them live in the brothels with their mothers and the Day Care Centre gives them a place to escape to during business hours. During their time with us, we provide them with a meal and work with them on their studies. If a child left attending school we bring the enrolment process for them. The football programme offers the boys a place to build friendships and learn discipline. 3 older boys from the football team got jobs and expressed the desire to leave the slums. The mothers can also come for formal and informal counselling.

Aldis was born and raised along with his 2 brothers and 2 sisters in Kamathipura, Mumbai. Their mother and father passed away many years ago and Aldis, the youngest of his siblings, was given care to his aunt to be cared for. The aunt works as a house cleaner for an NGO but in order to make ends meet she has taken a job in the brothels as a commercial sex worker.

While his aunt takes good care of him, living in Kamathipura exposes him to the sex trade, substance abuse and the gang. As an 18-year-old boy, Aldis is in the high-risk category. Fortunately, being a part of the Oasis programme has opened his eyes to these risks and he is committed to not setting them aside in his life. Aldis has been coming to the Day Care Centre for over a year and participating in their football team and computer training classes. His progress has just completed both ITA standards and plans to continue with his education. He tells us he wants to be a football player or an IT engineer when he grows up. Currently, we are working with him at a part-time job.

We also took Aldis to visit ourBLUE programme where boys are taught a whole array of life skills. He was motivated by what he saw and plans to sign up for the coming season.

Our anti-trafficking team in Mumbai focuses primarily on the aftercare and rehabilitation of women who have been freed from forced labour and the sex trade. We are able to offer professional counselling, full-time or part-time housing and vocational training to give them a real chance at a new life. The programme we run help girls and women to overcome traumatic pasts, discover their own identity and make choices for a sustainable and dignified future.

Oasis works within 2 government homes established for the rehabilitation and restoration of children and women who have been trafficked and exploited. Additionally, the government and partnering NGOs have created a multidisciplinary programme to offer a future to the women of Mumbai.

Girls are moved into the government homes after being rescued from brothels by local law enforcement. Medical attention is given upon arrival and regular checkups are routine for the rest of their stay. We also provide education, job skill training, health awareness and group counselling so that they can go on to lead empowered and independent lives.

Asha was 12 years old when she was found begging in the streets by local police officers. She was taken to a correctional home where Oasis staff members were running an outreach programme. When we talked to her she was quiet and shy. She told us that she was being forced to beg and had never been allowed to go to school.

We began the process of transforming her to a child’s home run by a partnering NGO, Need Based India, and attempted to locate her mother.

After much difficulty, we found her living in a small, run-down hut selling Dreams. We discovered that the story from her husband’s first marriage were forcing Asha to beg and depining her of proper attire, food or clothing. The brothers were planning on selling her to traffickers. Upon hearing this, they children’s home welcomed Asha.

At first, she struggled to adapt to the new environment. Having grown up with no parental control, she was not used to rules and restrictions and wanted to leave. But after only a few months, her attitude improved and we began seeing big changes in her. Her mother visits regularly to encourage her and bring gifts. Asha is happy and finally has a future to look forward to. She has almost completed our Bridge Course and will be enrolled in a regular school in the coming academic year. Asha tells us how her life has changed.

“I have a roof over my head, a place to study, food on time. I am very happy. A big thank you, I want to become a police officer and also I want to help people to study”
Nirmal Bhavan

Equipping women to step out into a new future

Funding requirement: PKR 54,08,184 ($90,460/GBP 57,823)

In partnership with SurfAid

Nirmal Bhavan was created in 2001 to meet the needs of women coming from backgrounds of sexual abuse and exploitation in a welcoming, home environment. At this transitional housing centre, girls are offered health and psychosexual care, basic literacy classes and livelihood training. The Learning and Livelihoods Centre gives the girls a place to work through their trauma while unlearning bad habits and finding out what it means to live responsibly and confidently. At the centre, they also get the tools and training necessary to compete in India’s job market. If they are ready, we help and support them in finding a suitable life partner. The minimum stay at Nirmal Bhavan is 9-months, though some of the women have been with us for as long as 2 years.

Reach

Nirmal Bhavan reaches 22 women/girls in a year.

Highlights

- 1 girl passed her NIOS 10th exam.
- 2 women were reunited with their family after 15 years.
- 18 new referrals in Nirmal Bhavan, 7 were from government homes.
- 3 women moved into semi-independent living and were celebrated with a farewell party.
- 2 girls were reintegrated with their family.
- 2 women were promoted in their jobs.
- 7 women have completed a course in home-based nursing care.

Bengaluru (Bangalore) is the capital of the south Indian state of Karnataka and home to several world-renowned educational and cultural institutions. Numerous technology, aerospace, telecommunications and defence companies have established in the Old Silk Route Valley of India and made it the 2nd fastest growing city in the country. However, as its population grows, its infrastructure struggles to keep up. Issues with sewage treatment, water shortages, sanitation and housing for the poor are all problems facing the growing region.

Current statistics show nearly 400 slums scattered throughout Bengaluru which 20%-30% of the population call home. Although Karnataka doesn’t have designated red light areas, human trafficking is a rampant and expanding black market, with the 3rd highest number of cases in the country.
Doddigunta / Banaswadi Hub

Helping people build a community where they can thrive
Funding requirements: INR 53,977,150 ($801,533,343.28)
In partnership with Asian Aid

The Doddigunta and Banaswadi hubs are located in Bangalore East, surrounded by a dense network of slums. We work primarily with migrants from South India to build a community where people can support and depend on each other.

We offer girls and boys clubs, tailoring classes and computer training programmes. Graduates are then encouraged to form or join a Community Based Organisation (CBO). These groups take ownership of development in their own community, identifying the problems that surround them and implementing solutions.

Alongside these programmes, we offer private counselling, a health clinic, opportunities to play our football league and classes on life skills and spoken English.

Highlights

- We ran a free health clinic every Thursday in partnership with the Seventh Day Adventist Hospital which treated and educated the community, reaching over 1000 people.
- Boys from our football training were offered the opportunity to play for select clubs.
- 70% of our tailoring students found employment using their newly acquired skills.
- We conducted a workshop with women from our tailoring class on how to start a home-based business.
- The local youth formed a Community Based Organisation to combat underage marriage and child labour.
- 45 boys were taken to Avalanche, an outdoor adventure camp. They took part in river crossing, a gorge walk, abseiling, swimming, archery and games to enhance their life skills.
- We’ve seen many of our boys give up cigarettes, alcohol and other bad habits and lead lives through which they can be role models to other young people in their community.

Hallegudadhahalli Hub

Empowering young lives through education and technology
Funding requirements: INR 8,000,000 ($113,339.77,82)
In partnership with Asian Aid

Our computer centre in Hallegudadhahalli focuses on building up the community by bringing vocational skill training to its youth. We offer courses in computer basics, Photoshop and graphic design, giving students a real chance at a life better than the one they have – a life with more opportunities and hope of a sustainable future.

Spoken English and life skill classes are also offered to prepare students for work in a professional setting. We invite business leaders from India’s top businesses to come and speak about networking, interviewing for a job and resume building.

More than just education, students find encouragement, friendship and role models they can look up to. They are also encouraged to pass what they’ve learnt on to their peers.

We have secured funds to expand the Hallegudadhahalli hub. In the coming year we plan to offer tailoring classes, a health clinic, dedicated advocacy and awareness training, a football club and an after-school tutoring programme.

Highlights

- 60% of our graduates went on to find employment based on their certification and area of study.
- 15 of our students participated in community health training conducted by the Seventh Day Adventist Hospital. On completion of this course 3 of them have secured jobs as paramedical staff assisting doctors in clinics.
- A business training workshop was conducted for 70 women from our tailoring class.
- 22 girls from our tailoring class enjoyed a full day at Breakthrough Adventure Camp learning life skills and building confidence.
- Out of all our programmes at this hub, only 4 students dropped out.
Lazar Road/Pulakeshinagar Hub

We opened this hub to serve the communities at Lazar Road and Pulakeshinagar. The living standard in Pulakeshinagar is lower than any other community Oasis works with in Bangalore. The area, no bigger than a football field, is overflowing with makeshift houses and populated by over 3,000 people. There is no electricity or running water. A few blocks away is Lazar Road, where the government has built two shoe-black buildings for families in poverty. People have built a slum around the building, hoping to get a room inside. Rampant substance abuse, alcoholism and a lack of job opportunities are the most prominent issues. For the youth growing up in these communities, we run a football team of 35 boys who meet for practice 6 days a week. We also offer computer training, medical checkups and tailoring classes. We work with students to keep them in school and connect them with jobs after graduation.

Highlights
- 4 boys from Lazar Road have begun playing football for the state team.
- Vaccinations for Hepatitis B were made available to all community members at no cost.
- 70% of tailoring students went on to find sustainable jobs.

Anti-Human Trafficking

Our anti-human trafficking division works alongside local police departments in Bangalore to identify suspicious cases of human trafficking, develop cases within the gangs and execute raids to free those kept in bondage. Once the women & girls are rescued Oasis provides them with vocational training and rehabilitative care and, if their situation at home is beneficial, we work to reunite them with their families. Our strong relationship with the Child Welfare Committee (CWC) and various government homes gives us a way to reach out to those already rescued. We also run awareness programmes in cities and rural villages to educate young women and their families on the warning signs and dangers of human trafficking.

454 students in schools were spoken to about human trafficking.

We met 7-year-old Nidh in early May. Her mother was married at the age of 13 and goes back to her for a few years later. Soon after Nidh’s birth her mother died and her father left town. Leaving her in the care of her aunt, a woman named Prath. Prath had several children of her own and was already having trouble making ends meet. Not wanting to be burdensome, she sent her niece to a shelter home. During this time, she approached by some people offering money if she allowed them to adopt Nidh. She agreed and together they went to the shelter. A caseworker at the shelter, sensing something was wrong, contacted the Child Welfare Committee (CWC) who turned the case over to Oasis.

After further investigation, we located Nidh and rescued her. We found out that Nidh did not even know who her father was. We informed the CWC of our findings and Nidh will stay with her in the shelter. We are providing her with an education and, according to her teachers, she is excelling and enthusiastic about learning. We will continue making monthly visits to Nidh to ensure her safety and well-being.

Through a single raid in April, our anti-human trafficking team was able to rescue 31 girls before they were sold into labour at a cotton mill in Torni Nadi. These mills, scattered throughout India, are notorious for 7-12-hour workdays, physical and sexual abuse and dishonest wages. When the children come to Oasis, they report they were forced to work in these conditions, a total of 15 hours a day. Out of desperation, the parents allowed them to take their daughters, all between the ages of 12 to 14 years old, for the meagre amount of Rs. 1000 (roughly $16/10). The team had spent 2 months developing a relationship with a local informer to let us know about the transaction. He told us when and where it would take place and gave us the details of the gang involved in operation. Using this information, we trapped the gang and were able to intercept them before they could force the girls.

Many girls returned home where we spoke to the families about the dangers the girls posed. After being told about the conditions that awaited them, they were thankful they had been stopped. However, some girls refused to work for the mills despite the risks.

The story was later brought to the Ministry of Women and Child Development who is currently pressing the government to implement vocational training programmes in the region.
Potters Wheel Hub

Offering the rural regions education and awareness
Funding requirement: INR 44,56,173 (374,111/ (3,401)
In partnership with First Fruits.

The Potters Wheel Hub, located in Panagur, was built as a way for Oaxis to begin reaching out to India’s impoverished rural areas. We are now able to provide services to 10 villages in and around the Chiklioor district. Many who live in the region are unaware of the tactics used by human traffickers, making them a soft target for gangs offering their daughters fake jobs in the city.

Apart from awareness, we knew that illiteracy and underemployment would be the biggest challenges. With this in mind, we set up a computer centre, a tutoring class, spoken English classes, a preschool and a primary school. For those who are excluded from public education, this is their only cost-free option in English medium education within an eight kilometer radius.

Our community centre offers children and young people a place to come and play volleyball, badminton and board games. While this centre keeps them off the street and away from the gangs, it also gives them a safe haven to build friendships, find role models and just have fun.

We have also begun showing the community how to run and manage fair-trade farms, bringing employment opportunities and further independence.

Reach:

- We reach over 200 children through our various programmes.
- Our computer class has reached 285 community members.
- Our spoken English class has reached 317 community members.
- Our after school program has reached 150 students.

Highlights:

- 40 children attended our newly formed pre-school.
- 53 youth enrolled for spoken English and life skills classes.
- We helped 35 elderly and widowed community members get their pensions from the government.
- We helped 1 woman receive INR 65,000 from government relief funds for cancer treatment.
- 200 people from the nearby villages attended our Christmas event.
- 38 children attended the VBS summer camp.

Chennai

Chennai (formerly known as Madras) is a place where India’s history and the modern world collide. It is a cultural destination as well as a major metropolis and the biggest industrial centre in South India. This coastal city is home to 8.9 million individuals, with a population density of nearly 17,000 people per square kilometre.

The sea trade of Chennai is on the rise. Brothel owners have begun lobbying the government for a designated red-light district which would grow and enable their business, currently made up of 16,000 sex workers. Child begging rings, child marriage and a large number of unemployed youth are other problems facing the region.
Basin Bridge Hub

Giving vulnerable communities the tools to build a new future
Funding requirements: PKR 33,48,112 ($642,160/€511,763)
In partnership with Ramboll Foundation

The Basin Bridge Hub was set up in North Cheam to offer the surrounding communities a better way of life. The region is made up of over 400 households living below the poverty line. Our work here focuses on empowering the youth by offering after-school education, health and nutrition classes, livelihood training and football coaching. The young ones are learning skills that we feel lead to sustainable employment and young women have begun taking on roles as community workers. We have seen them become an active force of change within their neighborhoods, directly responsible for its development and growth.

- Children: 170
- Youth: 13
- Women: 13

Highlights
- 120 children were enrolled in our after-school programme.
- 20 children who had dropped out were put back into school.
- 30 youth were able to find sustainable employment.
- 130 young boys attended our three-week football training camp.
- 10 boys participated in Sports Day, competing in the 100 and 400 metre dash as well as the high jump. Each participant was given shoes and a T-shirt.
- 12 footballers from the UK came to play against our boys. They donated footballs, air pumps and DVDs on how to develop football skills.
- We ran a health camp where attendees were diagnosed with tuberculosis, asthma, diabetes, UTI and other illnesses. Patients were referred to the Government Stanley Medical College for treatment at no cost. We conducted follow-up visits for each patient.
- We ran a dental camp where 76 community members came for checkups and cleanings. Those who required further treatment were sent to the Priyadarshini Dental College for cavity filling, tooth extracting and scaling, free of charge. They also received information on the ill effects of smoking and chewing tobacco bad on their teeth.
- 70% of the students we work with saw a jump in their exam scores and none of our students failed out. Local teachers noted a positive difference in the students participating in programmes with Oasis.
- The parents of half of the students we work with began attending parent/teacher meetings.
- We took 35 students to enjoy a day at a theme park. For some, this was their first time ever going to such a place.
- 15 mothers attended a parenting seminar.
- 1 tuberculous patient was completely cured through Direct Observation Treatment (DOTS).

Saikh has been an active member of our Basin Bridge community for about 3 years now. He comes to our after-school education programmes and regularly attends our football training sessions. Saikh firmly believes that, with his mother’s help, he can become a student who will take responsibility for the family. Wanting to help, Saikh dropped out of school and our football programme to find a job. When this news reached Oasis, Saikh’s coach went to visit him at his home. He spoke to his matter about the pivotal role education could play in his son’s life. Within a few days, Saikh had returned to his studies and his football team was excited to have him back on the field.
Blue Edge Chennai

Empowering young lives
Funding requirements: INR 15,99,704 ($26,538/€15,314)
In partnership with Blue Dart DHL

The Blue Edge programme is a 6-month course in spoken English, IT skills, customer service skills, interviewing for jobs, personal development and life skills. Run in partnership with Blue Dart DHL, this programme has reached over 100 students, preparing them to compete in a competitive job market and work in a professional setting. For many of the youth, this is their best chance at building a productive and independent life away from the slums.

I am Malli. I come from a poor family background. I lost my father 7 years back and my mother is a domestic worker. I have 5 siblings, all of my 3 sisters are studying in Blue Edge. 2 years ago I got married and have a 1-year-old child and my husband is a laborer. I attended this morning session regularly and I was punctual and on time. Even though I had finished just 10th standard, I was very much interested in English and computers. Before joining this course I was not confident about how I would react to the job interview. After joining this course I am sure I can support my family by going for work. I thank Blue Dart and Oasis for giving us this opportunity.

Kannapaparam Hub

Encouraging ownership and community restoration
Funding requirements: INR 14,65,206 ($24,557/€14,316)
In partnership with Tussor’s Fund

We built the Kannapaparam Hub to serve the 4000 families living in the surrounding slums. The community, though vibrant and diverse, is also volatile. Crime, drug use and alcoholism are rampant in the region. Through Oasis' programmes, community partnerships can access after-school education as well as training courses in tailoring, computers, health awareness, soft skills and spoken English. Graduates go on to join or create Community Based Organisations (CBOs) where members take ownership of their own recovery, identifying problems and implementing solutions. Though many criminals emerge from this region, it is also well-known for producing extraordinary football talent. In response to this, we started a football team of 22 players, where young men can come to develop discipline and athletic abilities.

My name is Ramesh and I have been living in Kannapaparam for the past 4 years. I regularly attend Oasis football practice, in the last academic year both my football coach and my tutor asked me to attend the Oasis After School Programme, so I did. I decided to go back to school but my After School Programme tutor encouraged me as I did. I attended very regularly in the class room. My teacher reported to me his improvement regarding my behavior. I was named by the headmaster of the school and I realized my mistakes and started thinking about my family's condition. Immediately I started preparing for the board exam. I scored first class marks in my board exam. My future ambition is to become on OFI Indian Police Services officer. I really thank Oasis for their hub to change my life from one end to another end.
Vyasarapadi Hub
To encourage academic and behavioral development in children by supporting local government schools.
Funding requirements: INR 8.57 crores ($14.39/£0.361)

In partnership with Renows Fund

The Vyasarapadi Hub was designed to run side by side the regions struggling government school, supporting students with academic assistance and extra-curricular activities. We work closely with the school’s management committee to address problems within the classrooms or curriculum and assist in implementing solutions. At the hub, students have access to a foundation course (reading, writing, and math), special tutoring for those preparing for their board exams and livelihood training where discipline, respect, and time management are taught through games and interactive sessions. Struggling children are offered counseling sessions where they can talk through their problems and receive sound advice.

If a student’s attendance is irregular, we make home visits to encourage them and share with their parents about the importance of education. Additionally, we help various community members apply for government assistance programmes, the process for which can often be complex and confusing.

Highlights
- 132 children and eight science teachers from neighboring schools came to the school’s science exhibition which we coordinated with the Tamil Nadu Institute of Science and Technology.
- 80 children studying in middle school have dramatically improved their reading and writing skills, reflected in their exams results.
- 25 children studying in high school have secured 100% results on their board exams.
- 70 students attended a family planning and personal hygiene.
- We coordinated with the school on a camp aimed at encouraging younger students to stay in school. 80 students attended and five dropouts were re-enrolled.

This is where you come in...

Now you have the opportunity to be a part of the transformative work being done at Oasis India. We are looking for partners who are moved by the stories that move us: people who refuse to be silent while others cry out.

Your financial support could mean a safe home for a woman escaping the sex trade, a graphic design class for a young girl dropping out of school or even a team of boys playing their hearts out on a football field away from the gangs. It could mean a new reality for those who assumed their story would end in the same slum where they were born.

We are requesting you to make a donation to help fund our work in India, as we point the vulnerable and lost towards rescue and rehabilitation – hope and freedom.

How can you support the work of Oasis India?

INR 200 ▶ a month will buy stationery and other material for children in education programmes.

INR 500 ▶ will give a child a meal a day for two weeks.

INR 1000 ▶ a month will help a commercial sex worker have access to health care and counseling programmes.

INR 1200 ▶ will purchase a football kit for a young footballer.

INR 1500 ▶ a month will enable a young person to attend a vocational training course.

Any other amount including Project Funding is most welcome.

Donations are tax exempt under Section 80G.

To donate to or volunteer with Oasis India, please visit www.oasisingdia.org

Thank you for your partnership and support this past year
